PITTSBURGH PLATE GLASS CO. SEEKS PLANT LOCATION HERE

The CORE

A draft of a compromise Boulder Dam Bill was submitted to Senator Hiram W. Johnson yesterday by Senator Lawrence C. Phipps of Colorado.

Charging of discriminatory action on the part of the Italian government against American ships going to Italian ports, are being filed in Washington by heads of American steamship companies. Retaliatory action by the American State Department has been requested.

In an extraordinary flight of 750 miles which carried him in the Spirit of St. Louis at an average rate of more than 85 miles per hour from Port Au Prince, Haiti, to Havana, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed safely and gracefully at Columbia field, 12 miles from Havana at 3:45 this afternoon. He took off from Port Au Prince at 8:35 a. m.

Fines for federal prohibition violations are being diverted into county treasuries to coax reluctant local officials into assuming the burdens of enforcement, it was disclosed yesterday.

With a new gasoline tank replacing the defective one that compelled a forced landing near Imperial yesterday the giant monoplane Albatross will take off within three days on another attempt to break the endurance record.

"A sure cure for flu" in capsule form was said by authorities here today to have caused the deaths of three persons and the serious illness of other residents of Alledo, Ill.

DEATH THREATS SENT CONVICT

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 8. — Attempts to terrorize the state witnesses were reported here today by District Attorney Neil R. McAllister in connection with the trial of six Folsom convicts for the murder of a prison guard.

Notes threatening death have been mysteriously dropped in the cells of the prisoners who have been testifying against their fellow convicts, McAllister said.

As a result the convict witnesses were ordered removed to a separate wing of the prison to night and the guard redoubled to protect them from possible execution of the threats.

"The notes no doubt were written by pals of the defendants who were mixed up in the fatal Thanksgiving Day riots," said the prosecutor.

Notwithstanding the death threats, four convict trustees took the stand today and gave graphic, eyewitness accounts of the murder of Ray Singleton, the guard.

All identified the six defendants as the killers. One went so far as to step down from the stand and walk around the counsel table and tap two of the felons on the shoulders to convince the defense that he knew them.

Mrs. Inez Singleton, widow of the slain man and mother of two little girls identified her husband's blood stained garments piece by piece including the white shirt that he had been slashed in three places by the felon's knives.

ON WEEK-END TRIP
Malcolm Beck and Weston Judkins have made plans to motor to the Russian river to spend the week-end holidays.

Dinner Honors Head Of Industry Following Trip To Plant Sites

J. M. Belleville, vice-president and general manager of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company who is on this coast seeking a location for a new factory that will cost $5,000,000, spent the day yesterday looking at possible sites in Richmond, and last evening at the Hotel Carquinez a dinner was given in his honor by the Richmond Chamber of Commerce.

All possible data will be furnished Belleville, and this will be passed on to his engineers, who will later make a trip to this coast, and finally determine the site for the new plant.

IMPRESSED BY RICHMOND

Belleville on his trip about the city was much impressed and Fred Parr stated they were able to satisfy the guest on every condition, with the possible exception of an abundant supply of fresh water, and it was his opinion that by the time was reached for final action, that the water problem would be solved.

The plate glass industry has developed to such an extent that a California factory is necessary in order to care for the tremendous demands for the product. In 1898 there were but eight million square feet of plate glass manufactured in the United States, and last year the industry had developed to the extent that 65 million square feet were turned out.

"Co-operation and friendship" was the key note of the dinner, which was presided over by P. M. Sanford, president of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce. Sanford opened the meeting by saying it was a pleasure to have Belleville present as their guest, and those present were the ones in the city who were in the habit of doing things.

PARR TELLS ADVANTAGES
Fred D. Parr of the Parr Terminal Corporation followed, and stated the afternoon had been spent in taking the guest of honor about the city and showing him the advantages Richmond possessed. Parr said he thought they had satisfied the visitor on a site, on railroad facilities, on climate, and of the desirability of Richmond as a home for the employees of the company.

"The only element of doubt that had entered into the matter is one of water, and we feel satisfied after Mr. Belleville has turned over his data to his engineers and they make their visit to this coast, that the water question will be taken care of," he declared.

WELCOMED BY MAYOR
Mayor Mattie Chandler, in her happy manner, welcomed the guest on behalf of the people of Richmond, assured him and his company of the co-operation of the people of Richmond, and hoped he would see his way to make a recommendation to his directors that would cause the company to select this city as the home for its Pacific Coast factory.

FLEMING SPEAKS
C. A. Fleming, industrial secretary of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, told those present that San Francisco was not selfish in a matter that was as large as this proposed plant. San Francisco would naturally like to see it locate with her, but there is a bigger question at stake and (Continued on Page Eight)

TRIO FREED IN PLANE THEFT

MARTINEZ, Feb. 8.—The "sanction" caused by the alleged attempt of three youths to "steal" an airplane from the San Pablo flying field blew up last night when Arthur Poetz and Jack Raby were brought here from San Francisco by Deputy Sheriffs Steve Neilson and R. L. McNamara on a warrant sworn out by Edward DeLarm, and when L. M. Luttrill the third defendant, came voluntarily to Martinez to answer the charge.

The three were released on their "O. R." by Justice L. F. Grover in San Pablo last night and this morning the situation was ironed out by Deputy District Attorney R. L. Boyer with the charge later being dismissed in the San Pablo justice court.

From the best information obtainable it appears that the youths had sought to replevin the plane at Redwood City but DeLarm hearing of the impending attachment "beat them to it" and flew the plane to San Pablo. Discovering the location of the plane on which they had claims for money advanced to DeLarm, who is said to have represented himself as being the owner of the plane, and conducting a flying school, the three, instead of resorting to law and the courts, went themselves to San Pablo and attempted to fly the plane back to Redwood City. The motor "cut out" and the plane crashed to earth. The plane is now under lock and key at the San Pablo airport pending the settlement of the replevin action transferred here from San Mateo county.

TOOLS FOR THE SHOP HARDWARE FOR THE HOME

There is such a small price difference between the disappointing and the satisfying kind of hardware that it never pays to take a chance. Manufacturers of quality hardware generally sell to hardware stores exclusively, and that is a very good reason why it pays to shop there. An article must be up to standard to meet requirements of stores advertising

Official Paper Of The City Of Richmond, California

THURSDAY, FEB. 9, 1928.

HIGH COST OF GRAFT

United States Senators are exposing the works of Albert B. Fall, once a trusted Cabinet official.

The tale of shame strips this pitiful old man of his final rags of respect.

According to credible testimony, he received $409,000 as his share of selling to grasping grabbers property belonging to the American nation.

Four hundred and nine thousand dollars for what?

Fall probably thought it was to be for a life of ease.

Plenty of income. A comfortable home. Mortgages all wiped out. Nothing to do but sit back and enjoy life. And nobody the wiser.

That line of reasoning is similar to every grafter's.

But all grafters pay heavily in the end.

A dollar's worth of shame comes from every cent that is taken.

Undoubtedly, if it could be done, Fall would return the $409,000 which witnesses swear he received, to restore his name to its former position of honor.

Undoubtedly he would work his fingers to the bone toiling in poverty the remainder of his days if he could undo the wrong he committed because of his lust for gold.

That time, unfortunately, is past.

Fall must stand by his record and his name must go down for what he did when he had the chance to make good, but fell down instead.

Every one tempted to pick up easy money in the same way should figure beforehand whether it is worth the price.

Two New York hunters report having seen four giant green frogs sitting on a rock in a lake near the Canadian line and say this is a sign that spring is coming. We would have more faith in this if the hunters hadn't been so near the Canadian line at the time.

Some British newspapers are indignant because an English woman preacher who had an engagement to speak in Chicago had it cancelled on her because she smokes cigarettes. And we suppose eventually they will get around to the point of blaming this on to Bill Thompson.

You never read any more of a woman saving the lives of a number of people by standing on the track and flagging the train with a flannel petticoat.

French politicians are expressing the opinion that Uncle Sam is drifting toward the League of Nations. Our advice to them is that they forget this, and remember that hope long deferred maketh the heart sick.

Luella Wed A Millionaire, But Will Go Back To Work

New York, Jan. 9, 1928.

Is the new Mrs. Maurice Heck-scher planning to support her husband in the style to which he has been accustomed?

That's what the friends of the recently returned honeymooners have been asking, laughingly, in view of the fact that Maurice recently went into bankruptcy and Luella is rehearsing for a Broadway show.

Gone are the days when an actress gives up her career when she marries into Park Avenue. Those two streets have become so much sisters under the skin that they no longer seem the bit in conflict. So when Luella, Gar, promised to love and obey Maurice she didn't sign any contract not to appear in public.

So now she's back at work, rehearsing for "The Optimists," the new revue that Melville Gideon is putting on soon at the Century Roof. Why should a little thing like being the wife of a millionaire real estate man, or one who was and undoubtedly will once more be a millionaire, interrupt a Broadway career? After all, Luella was getting along beautifully on the stage, and there's really no reason why she should give it up.

The Heckschers were supposed to be still honeymooning down in the South Seas, or some island more romantic than Manhattan, but they slipped quietly back in town a few days ago, and have been going about their respective businesses very quietly.

Maurice is trying to bring his business back on a paying basis once more, while Luella is getting her stage presence warmed up and ready to use when the "Optimists" opens.

Since the custody of the four

Heckscher children went to their mother, they are being very much under the wing of Mrs. Vanderhoef Heck-scher's family, the Harmon B. Vanderhoef's of Greenwich. Not so long ago Grandfather and Grandmother Vanderhoef sailed away with the Heck-scher post deb, Frances for a tour of the Mediterranean, which is to include some archeology in Crete as well as the usual basking in the sun of northern Africa. And that Frances is doing any gold digging—oh, no, it is all very scientific, and also very interesting.

Meanwhile her father and his bride are here in New York seemingly having a wonderful time, in spite of a little thing like bankruptcy.

The Queen of Spain has commissioned a Paris jeweler to design for her a shoulder pin in the form of a rose closely studded with diamonds. It is to be the sole decoration of a simple blue georgette frock. Already the shops are showing charming replicas of the rose pin, substituting brilliant and colorful stones for the diamonds.

PARIS CONTRIBUTES NOVELTIES

Much might be said, and still fail to do justice to the smartness of these new contributions of the haute couture to the season's modes. To the left is a bolero frock in printed silk, with blouse and sash of plain material. The lower sections of the sleeves are also plain, embellished with a simple embroidery motif. Medium size requires 3 1/2 yards 39-inch figured and 3/4 yard plain material.

For very fine twill, kasha, linen, or silk is the second model suited. The bolero collarless jacket is posed over a sleeveless frock, both the jacket and the dress being handsomely embroidered. Turning back from a V-shaped neck are narrow revers finished with a collar of silk that corresponds with the buttons and leading tone of the embroidery. Medium size requires 6 yards 39-inch crepe.

Dear Patricia Lee—

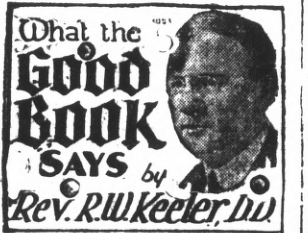

What do you think of a man who marries a woman with money without disclosing his financial difficulties? He loves the woman so strongly that he is afraid of losing her and admits his true position only after several weeks of marriage. The woman does not care for him, condemns him without mercy, and obtains a divorce. He loves her still and would do anything to regain her. What is your opinion and advice?—FRANK

Dear Frank—

My opinion is much more easily stated than my advice. For you had your chance at happiness and muffed it badly. Of course your wife condemned you not because you were poor, but because she must have thought that you had married her merely for her money. It certainly would have looked that way—you in poor financial straits and she rich, and you not saying anything at all about the fact that you had no money.

Naturally when you finally did tell her she thought that the reason for your silence was your fear that you wouldn't be able to put over the advantageous marriage.

What to tell you to do now is very difficult. If you are sure she doesn't love you, you might just as well let the whole thing drop, for a one-sided marriage is never happy, especially when it starts under a handicap, as yours did. But if you think that there is a chance that she still loves you, go to her, try to tell her just why you deceived her, ask her if she won't start over again. Perhaps she will understand.

How To Earn Money!

An old story returns. And thereby hangs a profit. It was the custom in Victorian times, as many of you remember with me, to cover the chair backs and chair arms with pieces of embroidery and crochet. They were pretty little ornaments in themselves, and they protected the upholstery. But they were looked upon with disfavor a few years back, and melted away. Now, however, I have seen similar coverings used in many homes. I also saw the seat of a big limousine covered with flax in heavy cream colored cotton. This was used to protect evening dresses and wraps and to keep them from soiling. The best part of articles like these is that they can be made as elaborate or as simple as the worker desires. So here is something for the beginner and the experienced home worker to try, and I know you will find them easy to make and popular.

I am thinking of doing hemstitching at home. Please tell me what you think of my plan and how I can buy a machine; how it will cost and how to advertise. Hemstitching machines are rather expensive, and I would not advise you to go into this work unless you have quite a bit of ready money on hand. Perhaps some of the tailoring shops have a second hand one I would advise you to shop around. Advertise through the tailoring and dressmaking shops, and try to make arrangements with one of them to do all their work on contract.

A friend and myself would like to obtain a job on a passenger boat as bellboy, or anything of that nature. What are the opportunities of securing a job, and how is the pay? What addresses should we write to? F. L.

I don't think you will ever get a job by just writing, my dear. You must apply in person. I can send you the addresses of most of the transatlantic routes. The pay is small, but you realize a lot in tips. If you are under 17 you should have your parents' permission.

I am a young widow with a little girl of 4 years. We have no home in the country, surrounded by mountains, only a few minutes from schools, churches, etc. I was wondering if it would be possible for me to get one or two children to board.

MRS. E. R.

Not only possible, but I should like very much to have you. You will find the Children's Aid Society will help you to get a child, and since you live in such a beautiful place, you might get a better rate by taking conversation. See if you cannot get in touch with the hospitals.

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. The Jazz Singer, starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. picture. It is based upon the play by Samson Raphaelson.

On the Eve of the Day of Atonement, Cantor Rabinowitz, who has taught his son, Jakie, the songs of the synagogue, finds the boy singing ragtime in "beer garden." He whips the child and Jakie runs off. Ten years elapse. Jakie, now Jack Robin, a jazz singer, down on his luck, wanders into a San Francisco vaudeville booking office hunting a job. He meets Buster Billings and they go to "Coffee Inn" for dinner. Frank, the pianist, asks Jack to sing. Mary Dale, a dancer whom Jack has long admired, hears his voice and decides to try to do something for him.

"You know, I caught you act in the Orpheum at Salt Lake," Jack leaned forward, boyishly enthusiastic and eager to talk, now that the conversation had turned from himself. "Gee, I think you're great."

"Oh, did you really?" Mary smiled. "Where were you playing?" Jack hesitated. He had been singing in a motion picture house of the cheap variety, and he didn't exactly know what effect the revelation of his status in show business might have on this girl whom he had so long admired from a distance. But he finally decided to tell the truth and take the consequences.

"I sang in a picture house there," he began. "You know one of those places where you have about eight appearances a day. It wasn't far from the Orpheum, and I used to go down the alley and watch you in between my numbers."

The girl gave him a quick look—but it was a look of sympathy and understanding, for she knew instinctively that he was telling the truth. She felt that this boy had something that was worth while, and she was anxious to help him if she could. Whether or not there were any other feelings concerned in her attitude towards him, Mary would not admit, even to herself. She had traveled a hard road, too, and this very fact made her more appreciative of the trials of getting on in the theatre.

You know Buster told me that the 'Little Polies' act was playing here," Jack rambled on, "but I never expected to really meet you. I tried to see your act again."

"I'll tell you what," Mary had reached a decision quickly. "I've got to get back to the theatre in about ten minutes to rehearse a new number. But why don't you drop around back stage tomorrow afternoon about two. I'd like to introduce you to our manager. I don't know whether he'd be able to do anything for you or not, but it won't hurt to try."

Jack looked at the girl wonderingly. For the first time in his life he had found someone who really took enough interest in him to want to do something for him.

"But do you—do you think I can make the grade?" His voice was timid and questioning, not because he lacked belief in himself, but because he had been so buffeted about and so long unable to find work that his courage was a little the worse for wear.

"I'm sure you can," Mary returned confidently. "I think your voice should get you a long way on the big time. You sing jazz, yes. But it's entirely different. It's a new idea, and that's what everybody wants—a new idea. Yours body tears in it."

Impulsively, with an almost childlike gesture, Jack stretched out his hand to the girl. His eyes were close to hers, and the confidence that she had given him made him more the Jack Robin he had been before his run of bad luck. But he drew his hand away quickly, fearful lest she might misunderstand him. Somehow, something in the girl's impersonal manner, her disarming smile, made him scarcely dared hope that this girl would have a second thought for him—even should he be so fortunate as to meet her. He, to his way of thinking, was only a songbird of cheap music halls and indifferent motion picture houses, while she—she was already playing the "big-time" and would, before long, be a star in her own right. Added to that, she had an unusual share of beauty, as well as an inner loveliness and finesse, and a cultural background.

Jack had met many girls in the theatre in his ten years of work. He had exchanged pleasantries with them; discussed the gossip of the hour with them; traveled along with them; but always his heart had remained untouched. Strange, indeed, it was, what with such precocity as that to which he was subjected, and the fact that he was often lonely and alone, that he had never fallen in love, or, which is just as serious, thought he had fallen in love with any of them. That is, up until the time he had first seen Mary Dale. After that he watched from afar and worshipped blindly.

And now he had met her. And more—he had even been interested in his voice. Jack did not realize himself that Mary was interested in him for himself, even though other girls had shown that kind of concern. For he had developed from the little Jakie Rabinowitz of the Ghetto into a good-looking, clean cut young man, and even amid the stress and trials of the road, he always maintained a kindness and a courtesy that had his own appeal in contrast to the bluntness of hard-boiled managers and seasoned vaudevillians.

Jack slept fitfully, sometimes waking all a-tremble with the thought that everything that had transpired was but a part of a dream. Then he would glance uneasily about him and see the strange walls and realize that he was actually where he believed he was. Sometimes he dreamed that he was trying to keep his two o'clock appointment, but in his hurry he might be never so late as he might be never so late as he arrived there. Then he would reach hastily for the alarm clock and discover that it was but five or six in the morning.

But at last it came eleven o'clock and Jack was awakened with the pleasant odor of frying bacon and steaming coffee filling his nostrils. He shaved with the aid of Frank's razor and he, with Buster and Frank, sat down to breakfast.

"All set for the big scene?" inquired Buster.

"Well, I'm going to do my best," Jack answered, smiling.

"Atta boy!" encouraged Frank. "And I'll lay you ten to one you land."

"I've got to try, anyhow, after all Miss Dale is doing for me," Jack said seriously.

"You bet," Buster agreed. "An' if I can get any kind of a bookin' here I'll catch up with you. It would seem like old times when the same dreamin' run again."

"It certainly would," Jack assented, warmly. "And you'd better try to do that—providing, of course, I land."

"I sure will," Buster nodded. "Got a clean shirt?"

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME

NEW ROLE FOR JOHN GILBERT AT CALIFORNIA
John Gilbert has given the screen swashbuckling heroes like "Barbary" and other types of roles ranging from a Yankee doughboy in "The Big Parade" to a modern buccaner in "Twelve Miles Out." Now comes this same John Gilbert, in the role of a man the public does not know very well, but who knows the public—the modern newspaper reporter.
Gilbert plays a reporter on a big metropolitan daily in his latest screen vehicle, "Man, Woman and Sin," now playing at the California Theatre, and incidentally gives the audience a glimpse into that mysterious region whence comes the world's news. Reporters at work in a whirling local room; the roving press and clicking typewriters at work on a big edition; the hurry and bustle of a huge plant—these are almost fantastic backgrounds for the ultra-modern role for the famous star.
Contrasted to these are the spectacular detail of the great Embassy Ball, Washington's greatest social affair, where envoys, ambassadors, and leaders in American life gather. The story has caught the very spirit of America's capital to weave into a huge setting for the love romance of a reporter and a society editor—and a strange plot that grows out of it.
Monty Bell, himself a former newspaperman in Washington, directed the picture from his own story, and a notable cast appears, including Jeanne Eagles, famous stage star of "Rain," in the role of the society editor.
Other features include "Dumb Belles," a Billy Dooley comedy; "Mystic India," a scenic novelty; and current news events.

Flames Hit Ice-Clad Building

WHILE firemen battled Boardwalk blaze in Atlantic City, N. J., water from hose froze as it fell, covering buildings with shroud of ice. Snow drifted against the building by storm added to difficulties. An extra burst of flame, due to a mysterious chemical blast, later caused more trouble. The entire local fire force worked in relays until noon. Damage was $250,000.

Guards Against Dyptheria Told By Health Officer

There is no one disease which has attracted wider attention over so prolonged a period as diphtheria. There is no other malady in which scientific study has been rewarded with greater accomplishments, according to City Health Commissioner, Dr. C. R. Blake.

Diphtheria is a disease which is characterized by a scum or false membrane in the throat and also severe general symptoms. The membrane may occur on any mucous surface. It should be also borne in mind that diphtheria toxin acts slowly and consequently it is not unusual for a child to play about the house during the first day or two that a diphtheria membrane has appeared in the throat. Owing to the very fact that the diphtheria toxin acts slowly, until its action has become apparent, may there be much indication of sickness. Due to the gradual onset of diphtheria, parents often fail to call a physician early and it is because of this fact that diphtheria gains such headway that the ultimate outcome as to life may be in doubt.

Diphtheria Antitoxin. Previous to the introduction of diphtheria, the mortality for diphtheria was commonly more than 30 per cent, whereas, since the introduction of this remedy, recovery is the rule provided the antitoxin is administered early and in sufficient quantities. Diphtheria antitoxin will nearly always save the lives of diphtheria patients if it is given in sufficient quantities on the first day of the disease, usually those who die are lost because an early diagnosis was not made.

Why die from Diphtheria?—Although in this enlightened age, the general populace possesses a very intelligent understanding concerning the benefits to be expected from tried remedies, it occasionally happens that some doubter is met with. The question at times propounded is "Why should a child die from diphtheria if antitoxin is a sure cure for the disease?" That such a query is unreasonable soon becomes evident to one who gives the matter thought. It is no more logical than to ask why any city should ever have a fire if it maintains a fire department which is properly equipped. Just as loss of property from fires is frequently due to carelessness, so loss of life from diphtheria may be similarly classified. If a fire is to be extinguished with small loss, it must be discovered early, and if a patient with diphtheria is to suffer little, an early diagnosis must be made.

Prevention of diphtheria. While it is well to rescue anyone from an illness by means of a recognized remedy, how much better it is if measures can be adopted which will prevent the acquisition of the disease. As regards diphtheria, there is a scientific means for its prevention. This is accomplished by the use of toxin-antitoxin.

In some cities of the United States, where an intensive campaign has been carried out for immunization against diphtheria, the disease has been completely eradicated. As an example, Sioux City, Iowa, with a population of 85,000, reported no diphtheria deaths during the year 1927. Numerous cities have reported similar results. If such effective endeavors can be attained in smaller cities, there is no reason whatsoever why like accomplishments cannot be secured in the greater cities.

All parents should request that their children receive toxin-antitoxin. The best time to give it is at the age of one year, the time of life at which diphtheria is so likely to be fatal. If possible, the family physician should be called upon to administer the treatment, which is given just under the skin in three small doses at weekly intervals. Any parents who cannot afford the services of a private physician, may apply to the Health Officer or the Health Center in Richmond, where they will be taken care of. It must not be forgotten when obtaining this remedy for children, that a certain amount of time must elapse following the treatment before the child has developed the full protective properties which are to be established. As a rule, about four months must have passed after the last treatment in order to say "the child is now safe from diphtheria."

Motor Caravans Plan To Attend Trans-Sierra Road Hearing

OAKLAND, Feb. 8.—Under the slogan "build the North Fork of the Feather River Highway now, give Northern and Central California an all year, snow free route through the Sierras," a mighty motor caravan will be assembled at the Hotel Leamington here on Friday November 17th at 9:30 o'clock, preparatory to its descent on Sacramento where a public hearing on the North Fork will be held in the Senate chambers in the State house at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Settlement in favor of this snow-free, all-year trans-Sierra motor highway is growing daily. Public and civic officials and thousands of East Bay citizens are rallying to the demand for the North Fork of the Feather River Highway, according to Hall Prahm, assistant secretary of the North Fork of the Feather River Highway Association with bay district headquarters at the Hotel Leamington.

Hotel men who recognize in an all-year, snow-free motor route connecting with the great transcontinental highways in Nevada a dollars and cents asset to their business are organizing to present their request to the State Highway Commission, Director of Public Works B. B. Meek and Governor C. C. Young at the public meeting on February 17th. Monday night the Richmond City Council, speaking for 31,000 Richmond residents, unanimously adopted a resolution calling upon the State administration to "build the North Fork of the Feather River Highway now" and to keep faith with the people of California who on three different occasions in 1909, 1915, 1919 voted highway bonds to build the highway connecting Oroville and Quincy.

Chamber of Commerce secretaries of Northern and Central California will meet at the Hotel Alameda, Alameda tomorrow and take steps to complete the plans for the participation of all chambers of commerce from Fresno north to Sacramento in the motor caravan carrying North Forkers to the public hearing. A. R. Linn, secretary of the Alameda Chamber of Commerce, sent out the call.

And now comes the announcement that B. B. Meek has accepted the invitation of the North Fork of the Feather River Highway Association to be its guest on an inspection tour of the completed portion of the North Fork highway between Oroville and Kettle, built by the counties of Butte and Plumas and the Great Western Power Company. The trip will be made this coming Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 12-13, inclusive.

There remains nineteen miles of highway to be built closing the gap between Oroville and Quincy. Plumas county supervisors are directing a "bearcat" shovel, with an eighteen-inch nose, in its work of carving a highway from Indian Falls southwest to junction with the highway at Kettle. It is this stretch of roadway that the North Fork adherents ask the State to build now. This done there will be immediately opened an all-year, snow-free trans-Sierra highway for Northern and Central California.

Indicative of the force of public opinion back of the movement to give this section of California this highway which the State is "legally and morally committed to build," according to Attorney General U. S. Webb in a speech as a private citizen at Quincy, January 7th last, is shown by the following official and civic bodies which have endorsed the project: San Francisco Bay District; Oakland City Council, Up-town Association, 550-50 Club, Builders' Exchange, 23rd avenue Boosters, East Side Consolidate Clubs (32 organizations), Oakland Recreation Department, Richmond City Council, Greater Oakland Improvement Club, Berkeley Real Estate Board, Oakland Real Estate Board, Broadmoor Men's Club, San Francisco Labor Council, Manzanita Improvement Club, Mutual Business Ben's Club, Alameda Chamber of Commerce, Alameda City Council, Oakland Post American Legion, 73rd avenue and E 14th St. Improvement Club, San Leandro Chamber of Commerce, Griddle Club of Oakland, Isleton Chamber of Commerce, Walnut Grove Chamber of Commerce, Courtland Chamber of Commerce, Rio Vista Chamber of Commerce.

Testimony In Hickman Trial Ends, Jury To Get Case Today

testimony through tomorrow morning. The state asked that the jury find the defendant guilty of kidnapping and killing the Parker girl, the penalty for which is death by hanging. The defense asked that Hickman be found "not guilty by reason of insanity."

This insanity defense resulted in the state minimizing and the defense magnifying the horrible details of the killing and mutilation of the Parker girl.

When Judge J. J. Trabucco adjourned court, Richard Cantillon, defense attorney, was just getting started with the final closing argument of the defense. He will finish in the morning to be followed by District Attorney Asa Keyes who will conclude the summing up for the state.

Judge Trabucco will then direct the jury who will decide whether Hickman merits death or confinement as an insane person.

STUTZ ENTERS AUTO RACES

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Feb. 8.—Stutz will enter the racing game it was announced by the Indianapolis Speedway officials today. The Stutz entry in the International 500 mile sweepstakes here on May 30, will be piloted by F. Lockhart, the fast flying youngster from California, who now holds so many speed records, he has some to give away. Stutz has not had a racing team since Willcox, Cooper and Anderson drove them back in 1915. And by the time he faces the starter's flag on the 2 1/2 mile brick oval here, he may have the world's automotive speed record tucked under his belt. This fact that Lockhart is the most daredevil racing driver on the tracks today, and the fact that Stutz already holds many speed

BIG LEAGUERS TO LEAVE FOR TRAINING CAMP

Six local ball players will leave the city within the next few weeks for the training camps of the big leagues. Four of the boys will go to the American league with the St. Louis Browns and the other two will head for Wichita Falls to play in the Texas league. Heading the list will be James "Jiggs" Wright, who had a little time with the Browns last year, when he stepped into the pitching box, on four different occasions. Al McCoy is going to accompany Wright to the big show and if he can break into the shortstop position will be in the pink of condition. McCoy has been with the El Cerrito Merchants and is ready to step at the call. Wright only started one game last year, but came against the Cleveland Indians. In this contest four runs were driven in before he started to pitch but when he did start there were no more runs made while his teammates drove in nine runs from the opposing pitcher. McCoy has a good chance to make the team this year as only a few regulars will return to the team, and the El Cerrito boy is a flashy fielder. McCoy, who is only 19 years of age, was the leading pitcher of his team and added materially to base running, at which the team excelled. Ernie Peters and "Red" Kress are the two other boys to go to the Browns. Both of the boys are known around the bay for their basketball ability as well as being ball players. Peters has been playing third base for the Standard Oil, and is well known in semi-pro circles. Kress had experience in the big leagues before, when he played short for the Browns in the closing weeks of the 1927 season. Last year he was getting experience with the Tulsa club, in the Texas league and is prepared to go the limit. Roland Roberts is the iron man of the Sunnies. He has pitched his club to two pennants in the C. C. league and the Twilight league. Out of 35 games pitched last year he won 23 and lost 6. Roberts will go to the Wichita Falls team and as he has already had some experience with fast company, when he played with the San Francisco Seals, should go with a lot of style. For a team mate Roberts will have Ray Fitzgerald, outfielder for the Barrel House in the Standard league. Fitzgeralds home run clinched the pennant for the Barrel House last year. All of the boys are rearing to go and Richmond fans are backing them with the hope that they will all bring home the bacon.

PIN RESULTS IN S. O. LEAGUE

Standard Oil bowling league is nearing the final stages. Games bowled last night are the next to the last games that will be rolled before the finals are scheduled. Machine shop beat the Engineers by 2583 to 2388 and the Shipping office beat the Shook factory 2657 to 2489.

Ball Practice Starts Soon At High School

Prospects for the baseball team at Richmond Union high school are turning out to be promising. Within a few weeks there will be practice in Nicholl park or First street park. Boys signed up are veterans and a newcomer will have a hard time getting some of the boys out of their places. Jack Pinto is a pitching ace with Kenny Swenson on the receiving end. As these boys were able to get through most of the games last year they will have a good opportunity to demonstrate their ability again this year. Doyle Taylor and Joe Viano can be substituted any time that Pinto has a off day. Other infielders who are booked as regulars are: Carl Baldwin, first base; Carl Pinto, second; Joe Williams, third; and Walter Gordon, shortstop. Gaston Murrell is about the lone star outfielder on the squad. Two more flycatchers will have to be picked by Major Hill and glimpses have been cast upon Charles Mallin and Charlie Jackson. They have good material in them and promise to develop into the quantity that is needed to fill out the team. First on the schedule will be the California Frosh who defeated the boys last year, but the boys are coming back at them strong this year. The absence of a playing field at the present time handicaps the boys, but they will get under way as soon as basketball season is definitely over.

MR. CURLEY MAKES A PROMISE

To crash the Sport Whirl! What an opportunity for a promoter with two shows on his hands! However (as Gene Tunney repeatedly said at the recent six-hundred-million-dollar dinner) I shall prove that even a wrestling and boxing promoter can be modest, and hereby promise solemnly that I will not mention the fact that on Monday nights I run boxing matches at the St. Nicholas Arena and wrestling matches at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, both in New York.

THE BLACK MENACE WHO BECAME CHAMPION
Living as we are in an age of black menaces, with George Godfrey looming up as a ghostly figure, and what with the various black menaces of the past, such as Harry Wills, Jim Johnson, Sam Langford and Tut Jackson, it always hands me a laugh when I think of the only black menace who reached the goal of heavyweight champion, namely Jack Johnson.

Jack was the black menace the early part of this century. Joe Choyinski knocked him cold down near Galveston, Tex. Against George Gardner he made such a poor fight that the Vigilantes of California gave both of them hours to leave the vicinity of the Golden Gate. He lost in twenty rounds to Marvin Hart, and yet he grew and grew a larger and better black menace.

And finally Johnson's chance came in far-off Sydney, Australia, on December 26, 1906, where he proved the winner over Tommy Burns in fourteen rounds, emerging from the ring as the heavyweight champion of the world.

JOHNSON DREW "COLOR" LINE ON THAM LANGEORD
With the title neatly tucked away, Johnson soon returned to these United States of America. And what do you suppose he did? Do you think he vindicated the colored race by announcing first come first served to his own color?

Not much! Instead, the former black menace immediately drew the color line against the black menaces. Sam Langford became a thorn in his side.

Did Jack Johnson rush off to England to keep appointment with Sam Langford? Not so that you could notice it! He forthwith drew the color line on this nasty, black menace, and assured all the promoters that made him fabulous offers to fight Langford that the public was against such a match and would not tolerate it.

Sam Langford got up petitions. He made personal appeals to Jack Johnson. He brought all the power to bear that he could muster, but Johnson proved obstinate. The match was never made. Then there were a few near menaces, such as Sam McVey, Joe Jeannette and a few lesser lights. In each case Jack scratched their names off his calling list, with the oft-repeated excuse that the public did not wish the match.

Peter Jackson was the good old menace in the days of John L. Sullivan and Jim Corbett. Corbett beat him, but John L. never would fight the Australian negro.

Joe Wolcott did the menacing for Bob Fitzsimmons, although he weighed many pounds less.

Jack Johnson menaced Jeffries, and Harry Wills took up the menacing during the Willard and Dempsey regime. Godfrey while he has not yet grown into a deadly menace is beginning to adopt a good following to make things uncomfortable for Gene Tunney.

While on the subject of black menaces—we must make brief mention of a new brand. That of a menace in the wrestling game. His name is Reginald Siki.

Joe Stecher was offered a good purse to meet Regi at the Ridgewood Club over in Brooklyn. Stecher replied that he would rather not.

Don't take this story that Jack Johnson turned on his own race and high-batted his former pals. He did not. In Johnson's happy-go-lucky was Langford and Jeannette were as welcome as could be at his loaded dinner tables. Each could partake of all the chicken and pork chops he could carry, but as business propositions there was nothing doing.

Watch me roll a great cigarette

HERE'S the little finger-exercise that I start my morning with. Some Prince Albert and the makin's papers—that's all you need. P.A. is crimp-cut and stays put. Just the right combination for smooth rolling and smooth smoking! P.A. burns even and cool. It is fragrant in the package and fragrant as you smoke it. And then that taste! Mild and mellow, yet with plenty of rich, satisfying body. I'll say P.A. makes a cigarette! So will you. Get some Prince Albert now and the makin's papers. If you like a pipe, try P.A. this way, too. It's great tobacco, Men.

COUNTY BOARD HEARS BID FOR FERRY CO. SPAN

be caused by, carelessly tossed cigarette stubs, the Board of Supervisors let it be known during the course of the hearing.

The issue was raised when Hugh T. Tullet, questioning Prof. Charles E. Derleth Jr., chief engineer for the Pt. San Pablo-McClellan project, asked about the fire hazard to the Standard Oil properties thus created, inasmuch as such a fire would not only cause heavy loss to the Standard Oil but might also destroy at least a part of the bridge structure, according to Derleth's admission, the Supervisors made it clear that this is a matter which would have to be amicably adjusted before franchise would be granted at that point.

The bridge proposed by the Long-Derleth-Calder-Klatt interests will be patterned after the Carquinez bridge in the building of which the latter three were closely identified. The San Pablo bay span, because of the width of the channel will be double the Carquinez span in proportions, Derleth explained, provision being made for the construction of four cantilever spans, replicas in the main of the Carquinez spans except that they will be 1200 feet in length, whereas the Carquinez spans are but 1100 feet. One of these giant spans will be east of The Brothers Island and the other three to the westward and spanning the main channel.

The bridge will span the water 150 feet at high tide the clearance and span lengths determined by the War and Navy Departments which have decreed that no permits will be granted for bridges with spans under those of the Carquinez bridge nor lower than 135 feet.

Extending westerly from Pt. San Pablo 5227 feet, virtually one mile, the bridge approach will be built chiefly on trestling although part of the embankment will be earth and rock fill. This is across the shallow part of the bay where five feet is the mean depth of water.

In the case of the Carquinez bridge, the C. & H. Sugar Corporation and the Matson Navigation Co. displayed keen interest in the fender protection for the bridge piers, a safeguard not only to the bridge structure but to ships of the latter line carrying sugar to the Crockett refinery. W. B. Tyler questioned Derleth at length on this matter.

George J. Calder, chief construction engineer on the Carquinez bridge, read an exhaustive report on present and anticipated traffic via the new span, basing his conclusions on the experience of the American Toll Bridge Co. in its operation of the Carquinez bridge where the estimated yearly automobile passage of 1,200,000 cars will hit the 1,400,000 mark. Calder estimated that the San Pablo bridge would return 10 per cent on the total investment of $15,000,000.

Dinner Honors Industry Head After Trip To Plant Site

selfishness should be put to one side. We are vitally interested," he said in seeing the plant come to the San Francisco bay area, and if Richmond is to be the place, we will be very happy. What benefits one city benefits the other, and we must remember, that after all is said, that this bay area really represents one big community, whose interests are identical.

JOHNSTON TELLS OF CHANGE

Henry A. Johnston dwelt on the advantages of Richmond for industry, and told of a trip he had made three months ago with a representative of Belleville. When he first came here he was much impressed with the southern California section, "but after he had been shown around Richmond, it is very evident that there was a change of mind or else Belleville would not be with us tonight."

HASTING URGES LOCATION

Paul Hastings, industrial agent of the Santa Fe, an old time friend of the guest of honor, said it was a pleasure to attend the dinner, and it was his sincere wish that Belleville would see his way clear to locate in Richmond, as he believed this city possessed advantages that could not be found elsewhere.

HARBOR FACILITIES

J. A. McVittie, City Manager, told the visitor of the great development that was taking place on the harbor, of the railroad facilities of cheap fuel and power, and assured him that if the company selected this city as its home that Richmond would co-operate with him in every way possible.

SCOTT STRESSES CLIMATE

Councilman Walter W. Scott stressed the natural advantages of this city and stated he thought most of the speakers of the evening had overlooked the wonderful climate suitable for industries, that this bay section possessed. Scott told of his visit with Parr to the Ford plant at Detroit, and said he was satisfied after seeing the workmen at their duties there, wrapped up in heavy overcoats, caps, mittens and mufflers, that a workman on this coast could do as much work as three in the east. Scott promised every aid possible from the city, if the plant came to Richmond.

BULL TELLS OF TRIP

E. B. Bull told of his trip with the guest during the afternoon "and while he had nothing to say about the plant during the ride he was given I came to the conclusion after listening to him talk about the wonderful opportunities Richmond afforded for homes, that we wanted him, his company and their employees here." Bull spoke of the spirit of friendship that was manifested among the cities about the bay, and said that was the spirit that was going to place this section way in the lead.

BELLEVILLE INTRODUCED

J. M. Belleville, the general manager of the plant and the guest of the evening was then introduced and he was greeted with the most hearty of applause. "It is indeed a pleasure to be with you here this evening," said Belleville. "I was going to talk about co-operation, but from the remarks that have been made here this evening I find it is not necessary as you have apparently solved that question. We should all eliminate selfishness and work together, and during my lifetime I have always made it a point to make and hold friends."

TELLS OF INDUSTRY

The speaker also told of the development of the plate glass industry, and stated the demands were increasing by leaps and bounds. More factories were necessary, and the companies were going to provide them.

At the conclusion, P. M. Sanford drove Belleville, and Fred D. Parr to the Southern Pacific ferry, where they took their departure for San Francisco.

Those present at the dinner were: J. M. Belleville, of Pittsburg, Pa.; Paul P. Hastings, industrial agent of the Santa Fe; Mayor Mattie A. Chandler, Fred D. Parr of the Parr Terminal Company, C. A. Fleming, industrial secretary of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, P. M. Sanford, president of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, Harold K. Crane, H. A. Johnston, J. L. Paulsen, W. W. Scott, J. A. McVittie, George N. Rooker, H. M. Creeger, O. R. Ludwig, Fred Caudle, Charles S. Renwick, G. E. Milnes, Fred S. Newson, M. A. Hays, Frank J. Woodward, Sherman S. Burke, T. A. Goodrick, W. T. Helms, and B. S. Sanders.

Health Officer Files Report

MARTINEZ, Feb. 8.—Communicable diseases are in evidence in ten school districts of the county according to the first monthly report of Dr. I. O. Church, director of the reorganized Contra Costa Health Department, on file today with the Board of Supervisors.

Dr. Church informed the supervisors that an effort is being made to get complete reports of communicable diseases and every case reported is being investigated promptly.

"It is hoped," the physician says, "that the report for this month will not be considered indicative of what is to be expected in future monthly reports as a very great portion of the time has been spent in arranging office accommodations for the department, in formulating policies, and in details incident to organization."

The physician's report contained a detailed analysis of his work during the first month covering education, sanitary inspection, communicable disease control, immunization, child hygiene, and schools. Twenty-four cases of communicable disease were reported during the month, the report shows. Immunization treatments against smallpox and diphtheria were given to 83 persons and public premises were made.

At the meeting to be held tonight, committees for arrangements will be named.

Junior Asst. Scout Master to Lloyd Hall, Troop No. 3; Robert Grice, Troop No. 4; Henry Pedersen, Troop No. 4.
